Præcursus in Latino tantum addit in nominibus C. Præcursus præquam Gamma vice jacta prout C.

Vbi videre est, in veris præterita, quod veteres Latini non Kappa, sed Ka dicebant, ut hodie: unde Karus, Karus, Karus, Karus scribuntur: et quædam muta incipiunt à fe, & definiunt in E, & contra feminales incipiunt ab E, & definiunt in fe, veteres compendii gratia muta literæ non apponebant E, utpote qui literam ipsam pro syllaba acciperent, itaque Ene, pro BENE, pter pro petere debentur, pro Karus, Karus scribuntur, et quædam muta incipiunt à re, & definiunt in A, non in E, ut ipsæ: ideo, cum syllaba Ka concipienda erat, foli K contenti A omittuntur, itaque Krago, Klumnia, Kput, Kledas scribuntur, unde Krus, & Knus, pro Karus, Karus habes apud optimum, & vetustissimum Grammaticum in C. Karus, Karus, Karus, Karus scribuntur, non posse scribi per C, Krus, Crus, quia inquit essent Krus, Cenus, non Karus, Canus. Veteribus ergo non minus in usu fuit hæc litera quam C. Nunc, quia in usu non est, ne longius eis infamilis, recentibus innotuit quædam voces, quæ Latinis per C scribuntur, licet jam revera vis fuit ante Latinas habenda.

This image shows a blank page from a document. The paper has a light beige or off-white color. There are prominent horizontal bands of varying shades of gray across the entire page, suggesting a scanning artifact or a problem with the original document's texture. Additionally, there are several thin, dark vertical streaks scattered throughout, particularly noticeable on the right side. A small, dark cross-shaped mark is visible in the upper right corner. No text, figures, or tables are present on the page.

vel (ut quidam) Sefferius: Locis, fervilius pennis potius Tacit. Di. quia aberat semitior ab urbe militari, ubi cruce, patibula defixa, cadavera abjecta, alique ad supplicia plebis.

Sefferius etiam instrumentum quoddam. Col. Di. forte a mensura modo, quod duos pedes, & dimidium erat longum.

Sefferius, a, um; adj. Duo continens & feminis, feminis terius. Sefferius pes, i. e. duo pedes & feminis. V. Mart.

D. Sefferius, ii; m. g. A coin among the Romans, of our money two pence abating half a farthing, and had this character H-S, but false privities, the true character being L-S, signifying Dues Libres, by the two L's, and Semissis by the letter S, where by Libra dath significat no more than the Roman coin called As, then is this opinion touching the character L-S safe to be confirmed: For divers authors rendering a reason of the name Sefferius, say it was so called quasi Semitertius, that is, such a coin as containeth Duos solidos asse & semitertius, and an half of the brassy coin called As: This Sefferius was in use a common coin among the Romans, that Nummus and Sefferius became at length one to be used for the other: To understand the art of numbering by these Sefferius, which consisteth of three values, observe 1. If the numeral word be a Noun Adjective, agreeing in case, gender and number with the substant. Sefferius, then it significat half so many of those coin: As Decem Sefferii (which was all one with 100 quadrantes, and was given by the greater Romans to their poor followers instead of a sapper, and was called by them Sportula) was so many times 1 d. ob. q. of our money 1 l. 6 d. ob. q. 2. If the numeral adjective of a different case be joined with Sefferium, the gen. plur. it significat so many 100 Sefferii, as Decem Sefferium significat ten times 7 l. 16 s. 3 d. 3. If the numeral adjective with Sefferium be an adverb, then it significat so many hundred, 1000 Sefferii, as Decies Sefferium significat ten times 7 l. 16 s. 3 d. 4. If the numeral being an adverb, it often times put simply by it self, without the addition of any other word, to significat in the same manner, the Genitive case Sefferium being understood, as Decies for Decies Sefferium. V. Brewood de nummis Romanis.

Sefferius dicitur quarta pars dentis, itaque Sefferius, i. e. decem affibus asse imbutur, nam Sefferius duobus affibus, & semissis permixtatur, at cum sexdecim affibus denarius affibus effi, tum Sefferius quatuor affibus valuit. Plin. 33. Sefferium valet mille sefferiis nummis, fuisseque idem mille nummi & Sefferium. Sefferius vel Sefferium: Genus veli, operimentum quoddam. A kind of veil, or softer kind of garment, quod bonum, deinde dicitur de toro, quod est fedit. 2. Sedile, dignitatis in fedito, & Metron. 3. Sedile, 4. Censu sedentium, congregatio, uris Synodus. 5. Conclusio fedentium facta. 6. Habitatio. 7. Ufurpatio etiam Metaph. de collocacione, seu fitu, qui est similis feditio, & Synecd. de fitu aliquid quiescentis, & de feditioe ad iudicandum, unde & Metron. pro gubernacione judiciali.

A coin among the Romans, of our money two pence abating half a farthing, and had this character H-S, but false privities, the true character being L-S, signifying Dues Libres, by the two L's, and Semissis by the letter S, where by Libra dath significat no more than the Roman coin called As, then is this opinion touching the character L-S safe to be confirmed: For divers authors rendering a reason of the name Sefferius, say it was so called quasi Semitertius, that is, such a coin as containeth Duos solidos asse & semitertius, and an half of the brassy coin called As: This Sefferius was in use a common coin among the Romans, that Nummus and Sefferius became at length one to be used for the other: To understand the art of numbering by these Sefferius, which consisteth of three values, observe 1. If the numeral word be a Noun Adjective, agreeing in case, gender and number with the substant. Sefferius, then it significat half so many of those coin: As Decem Sefferii (which was all one with 100 quadrantes, and was given by the greater Romans to their poor followers instead of a sapper, and was called by them Sportula) was so many times 1 d. ob. q. of our money 1 l. 6 d. ob. q. 2. If the numeral adjective of a different case be joined with Sefferium, the gen. plur. it significat so many 100 Sefferii, as Decem Sefferium significat ten times 7 l. 16 s. 3 d. 3. If the numeral adjective with Sefferium be an adverb, then it significat so many hundred, 1000 Sefferii, as Decies Sefferium significat ten times 7 l. 16 s. 3 d. 4. If the numeral being an adverb, it often times put simply by it self, without the addition of any other word, to significat in the same manner, the Genitive case Sefferium being understood, as Decies for Decies Sefferium. V. Brewood de nummis Romanis.
